A Bibliometric Analysis of Research Productivity of Social Scientists in University of Madras

Prof.M. NAGARAJAN

Senior Fellow (ICSSR) Department of Library and Information Science Annamalai University Annamalai Nagar

Abstract: The paper analysis publication productivity of Faculty members of Social Science Departments of University of Madras during 2001-2019. It covers 291 publications during the period of study. The data was collected from SCOPUS database. Result showed that two author contribution ranked first in order. Degree of Collaboration is 0.73.

Keywords - Bibliometrics, Social Sciences Department and University of Madras.

1. Introduction

Bibliometrics is a type of research method used in Library and Information Science. It is a quantitative study of various aspects of literature on a topic and is used to identify the pattern of publications, authorship and secondary journal coverage with the objective of getting an insight into the dynamics of growth of knowledge in the areas under consideration. This consequently leads to the better organization of information resources that is essential for its most effective and efficient use. Bibliometrics today has attained sophistication and complexity having national, international and interdisciplinary character. The present study focuses attention on the bibliometric analysis of Social Science literature.

2. Objectives of the Study

The study is mainly aimed at the following objectives:

- 1. To find out year wise distribution of publication from 2001 to 2019.
- 2. To find out authorship pattern and degree of collaboration.

- 3. To identify collaborated countries.
- 4. To find out source wise distribution of research output.

3. Methodology of the Study

The present study uses 19 years publication output data from 2001 to 2019 to understand the broad characteristics of the research output of the Faculty members of Social Science Departments in the universities of Tamil Nadu. The data of the study was taken from the SCOPUS Database from 2001-2019 which were then tabulated and analysed.

4. Analysis and Interpretation

Table 1 shows the trend of Social Science research by University of Madras. From the table it can be found that the growth trend has gained momentum from the year 2011 onwards. There is continuous growth after the year 2016. Unlike the Anna University, the University of Madras marks some publications throughout the study period without null value. It could be noted from the table that out of 236 total publications, a maximum number of 28 (11.02%) publications published in the year 2019.

| No of authors | No of publications | Percent |

As regards to authorship pattern by Scholars of University of Madras, 34.71 per cent of publications are by two authors and 27.49 per cent are by single authors. Publications by three author is 22.34 per cent. From this it can be inferred that nearly 15 per cent of the publications are by more than three authors and nearly three fourth of the publications are collaborative in nature.

Table 3 Degree of Collaboration

| Single (NS) | Author | Percent | Multiple Authors (NM) | Percent | Total Number of Authors | Degree of collaboration |
|----------------|--------|---------|--------------------------|---------|-------------------------------|-------------------------|
| 80 | | 27.49 | 211 | 72.51 | 291 | 0.73 |

A study of data from Table 3 indicates the degree of collaboration in research output. The degree of collaboration is 0.73 during the study period. Out of 291 literature published, 80 papers are published by single author which is 27.49 percent of total output and 211 are from multiple authors which is 72.51 percent of total output.

| Type of Publications | Publications | Percent |

Table 5 shows the overall total publications of University of Madras in all the fields and the publications in Social Sciences for the period from 2001 to 2019. There is no uniformity in growth or decline in all subjects taken together as well as Social Sciences alone from 2001 to 2019. The year 2014 marks the peak of the publication in all the subjects while the year 2019 marks the peak in case of Social science publications. The trend of research over the years for all the subjects and the specific subject social sciences varies. But the correlation coefficient of total publication count and the publication count in the field of Social Sciences is 0.84 which is positive and very strong. This shows that, as the total publications by scholars of University of Madras increases, the publications in Social Sciences also increases.

The scholars of University of Madras have contributed 291 publications in the field of Social Sciences of which less than one tenth (33) are of international collaboration. Table 6 shows the international collaboration of scholars from University of Madras. International collaboration with USA is the maximum forming 39.39 per cent of total international collaborative publications followed by Canada forming 12.12 per cent. The other major international collaborators are Malaysia, Nigeria and United Arab Emirates.

5. Findings of the Study

The year wise distribution of publications shows that the highest number of 26 publications have appeared in year 2019. Majority of the papers are contributed by two authorship 101(34.71%). Degree of collaboration is 0.73. Out of 291 papers, 33 papers are published along with international authors.

6.Conclusion

The present study is related to bibliometric analysis of research articles published by the Faulty Members of University of Madras. This study has analysed various aspects such as year wise publications, Authorship patterns and international collaboration. So, this study definitely will help universities to motivate the Faculty Members to improve their research activities.
